Kahala Mall Welcomes New Stores

HONOLULU, HAWAII – This week Kahala Mall announced three new retailers, including Belle, a new children’s and juniors’ contemporary clothes and accessories boutique. Located near the center court area, Belle will celebrate its grand opening on Saturday, October 26. This is the second Kahala Mall store owned by Hawaii Kai resident Tasha Yagi, who also owns Adore, a women’s contemporary clothing store.

“We’ve had great success with Adore, and wanted to create a children’s line inspired by my love for girls’ clothing and my daughter,” said Yagi. “We believe that we are the first store in Hawaii to provide reasonably priced, contemporary clothes for girls and juniors.”

The second new retailer to open at Kahala Mall is the new SolarCity customer service kiosk. SolarCity is one of Hawaii’s first full-service solar providers offering clean energy solutions.

“We are thrilled that Kahala Mall has invited the SolarCity team to help customers evaluate and serve their clean energy needs,” said Jon Yoshimura, director of policy and electricity markets at SolarCity. “This kiosk is the first of its kind in the state, and we look forward to seeing positive feedback from mall patrons.”

Brookstone, a national retail chain that provides unique gift ideas and smart solutions, opened October 4.

“Belle, SolarCity and Brookstone are welcome additions to Kahala Mall and complement our current retail mix,” said Floyd Williamson, General Manager. “Fall is a perfect time for visitors and residents alike to come explore our new shops and get a head start on holiday shopping.”
